Privacy Policy What does First Community Financial Bank do with your personal information?

Why?

Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.

What?

The types of personal information we collect and share depend on the product or service you have with us. This information can include:

- Social Security number and income
- Account balances and payment history
- Transaction history and account transactions

When you are no longer our customer, we continue to share your information as described in this notice.

How?

All financial companies need to share customers' personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their customers' personal information; the reasons First Community Financial Bank chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.

Who We Are

Who is providing this notice?

How does First Community Financial Bank protect my personal information?

How does First Community Financial Bank collect my personal information?

This privacy policy is being provided by First Community Financial Bank

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings. We restrict non-public information about you to those employees that have a business purpose in knowing such information.

We collect your personal information, for example, when you

- open an account or deposit money
- pay your bills or apply for a loan
- make deposits or withdrawals from your account

We also collect your personal information from others, such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only

- sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness
- affiliates from using your information to market to you
- sharing for nonaffiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing. See below for more on your rights under state law.

Definitions

Nonaffiliates

Companies not related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies.
