FACTS	WHAT DOES THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF ALLENDALE DO WITH YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION?
Why?	Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.
What?	 The types of personal information we collect and share depend on the product or service you have with us. This information can include: Social Security number and account balances Payment history and credit scores Transaction history and credit card or other debt
	When you are no longer our customer, we continue to share your information as described in this notice.
How?	All financial companies need to share customers' personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their customers' personal information; the reasons The First National Bank of Allendale chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.
Reasons we can	share your personal information Does The First National Bank share? Can you limit this sharing?

Reasons we can share your personal information	Bank share?	Can you limit this sharing?
For our everyday business purposes— such as to process your transactions, maintain your account(s), respond to court orders and legal investigations, or report to credit bureaus	Yes	No
For our marketing purposes— to offer our products and services to you	Yes	No
For joint marketing with other financial companies	No	We don't share
For our affiliates' everyday business purposes— information about your transactions and experiences	No	We don't share
For our affiliates' everyday business purposes— information about your creditworthiness	No	We don't share
For nonaffiliates to market to you	No	We don't share

Questions?

Call (618) 263-6511 or go to www.e-firstnationalbank.com

Page 2

What we do
How does The First National Bank of Allendale protect my personal information?	To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.
How does The First National Bank of Allendale collect my personal information?	 We collect your personal information, for example, when you Open an account or apply for a loan Use your credit or debit card or show your driver's license Make deposits or withdrawals from your account We also collect your personal information from others, such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies.
Why can't I limit all sharing?	 Federal law gives you the right to limit only sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness affiliates from using your information to market to you sharing for nonaffiliates to market to you
	State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing.
Definitions
Affiliates	Companies related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies.
	 The First National Bank of Allendale has no affiliates
Nonaffiliates	Companies not related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies.
	 The First National Bank of Allendale does not share with nonaffiliates so they can market to you
Joint marketing	A formal agreement between nonaffiliated financial companies that together market financial products or services to you.
	 The First National Bank of Allendale doesn't jointly market

