

Wrap-up

Password Study

To review, the first part of the study was a questionnaire where we asked about how you create, manage, and store your passwords. We also asked you to evaluate the likelihood of having your passwords compromised by different people. The second part of the study asked you to estimate how many passwords you have and how these passwords relate to each other. Additionally, we asked you about password selection. Your participation in this study has provided valuable contributions to our understanding of how people perceive and evaluate their password behavior.

Thank you for participating in this session. Please feel free to ask the researchers any questions about either portions of the study. After leaving, if you have any questions about the study, please contact XXX
